

EQUINE FACILITATED TRAINING PROGRAMMES

Athena Herd Foundation is a not for profit community interest company located in West Kent, UK offering the best possible learning and development experience in a unique location alongside special people and animals that are at the heart of what we do. We are trauma informed and work ourselves with a broad and inclusive client base. We believe that those that train with the Athena Herd Foundation should be able to go on and work with their clients of choice (always staying within their scope of practice). Whether individuals or groups, children, vulnerable adults, or corporate and leadership clients. We are proud to say that many do and are successful. The Athena Herd Foundation is rapidly evolving into one of the largest Training Providers recognised in this field with an ever-growing authentic community and is a pioneering national and international specialist:

- Level 2 ACCPH (Accredited Counsellors, Coaches, Psychotherapists and Hypnotherapists) Certificate in Equine Facilitated Interactions (Equine Facilitated Learning, Therapy, Occupational Therapy, Psychotherapy depending on qualifications, known in the market also as Equine Assisted Services, Learning, Therapy, Occupational Therapy, Psychotherapy and so forth).

This can be taken as a standalone Certificate or as Module One of the full externally accredited ACCPH Level 4 and Level 5 Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diploma training programmes.

- What is the time commitment?
 - ONSITE four full days of onsite experiential group learning and personal reflective practice; or
 - ONLINE 30 hours over seven consecutive weeks interactive, experiential, distance learning (access to horses is required between the sessions)

You will be able to really start to understand, develop and deliver work as an independent practitioner and build on the practical skills of the work with the support of the Athena Herd Foundation team and community (depending on your background and qualifications this can either be referred to as Equine Facilitated/Assisted Learning or Therapy (i.e. Occupational Therapy, Counselling and, if appropriate, Psychotherapy), provided you have the appropriate supporting qualifications). Material and a set of Equine Insights (cards) is provided to you to support you on your journey.

- On completion of the Certificate, YOU are eligible to:
 - be a lifetime Member of the Athena Herd Foundation national and international community at no extra cost which includes a private facebook community group within which referrals for work are made, knowledge is shared, CPD and CEU events as well as free annual networking and events and more are shared;
 - access to your unique log-in area with client and waiver form templates for your use (with more templates provided as your journey progresses);
 - include your details on the Members map on the athenaherd.org website;

EQUINE FACILITATED TRAINING PROGRAMMES

- display your unique Member logo on your own website and link back to the Athena Herd Foundation website (Athena can provide website/brand support as an addition);
- apply to join the international professional membership through the ACCPH as a minimum as an accredited Member: see accph.org.uk;
- take out professional indemnity insurance through the Athena Herd Foundation's Balens Affinity Scheme to be covered to do the work;
- consider the Westminster Indemnity insurance policies see athenaherd.org.

The Athena Herd Foundation also has international relationships with insurers in different jurisdictions that recognise its programmes including for example Equisure and Westminster Global both in the USA.

- Externally Accredited ACCH Level 4 (160 hours) and Level 5 (240 hours) Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diplomas

On successful completion of the externally accredited ACCPH Level 2 Certificate in Equine Facilitated Interactions, you can continue your journey and build on your specialism whether that be working with individuals and/or groups, children and/or adults, looking to garner funding for the work, work with children, vulnerable adults, and/or corporates and move on to complete the externally accredited ACCPH Level 4 Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diploma and/or Level 5 Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diploma as follows:

- (i) Level 4 Module Two (ONLINE): three practical case-studies involving a minimum of ten sessions overall supported with supervision, delivery of a case study and mentoring plus two facilitated online group action learning sets and personal research. The goal is to really develop and build both on your practice from one session with a client(s) to supporting multiple client(s) sessions along with enhancing those questioning and clean language skills; and
- (ii) Level 4 Module Three (MIX): interactive online topic learning and sessions to further develop and build on your practice (mindfulness and grounding, embodiment and somatic practices, empathy and social intelligence) supported also by the business and risk mitigation aspects including the provision of further appropriate templates (incorporating your business and considerations around data and insurance, risk assessments, policies and procedures, garnering funding and much more).

NEW TO 2024, for Level 4 qualification the business-related sessions can be swapped for one alternative topic where prior agreement by Athena is confirmed. This can be based upon confirmation of existing business experience or agreement to the inappropriateness of the content for learner. Any selected replacement topic needs to be pre-agreed with the Athena Herd team on application, before commencing Modules 2 and 3.

EQUINE FACILITATED TRAINING PROGRAMMES

The alternative topics are (one to be chosen for Level 4 learners):

- Working with young people
- Understand the nature of horses and the implications for Equine Facilitated work
- Mental Health awareness and support, and wellbeing benefits
- Capturing and recording the benefit of your work
- Working with Mindfulness
- Working with Corporate Clients

Please note that this module can be taken as a full distance learning module with the option of one extra online practice client session or you can opt to spend two days onsite.

- (iii) Level 5 Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diploma: in addition to completing Modules One, Two and Three you can elect further modules from the above selection of topics, self-guided research and an extended written case study with the option of one extra online practice client session or two days onsite.

The provision of full support, mentoring and supervision is included throughout your training experience.

Timing:

- Level 4 externally accredited ACCPH Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diploma: inclusive of Module One, Module Two and Module Three to be completed over a period of around nine to ten months;
- Level 5 externally accredited ACCPH Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diploma: will take an additional three to six months to complete on completion of the Level 4 Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diploma.

Please note that the Athena Herd Foundation team will consider requests to defer Modules Two and Three and re-join the pathway to complete the externally accredited ACCPH Level 4 Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diploma at a later stage after completion of the Certificate and/or Level 5 Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diploma on a case by case basis to.

- externally accredited ACCPH Level 7 Certificate in Equine Facilitated Interactions (Equine Facilitated Learning, Therapy, Occupational Therapy, Psychotherapy depending on qualifications, known in the market also as Equine Assisted Services, Learning, Therapy, Occupational Therapy, Psychotherapy and so forth). This can be taken as a standalone post-graduate qualification provided that applicants have a Bachelors (UK Level 6) degree and a recognised qualification in Equine Facilitated Interactions (including Equine Facilitated/Assisted Learning, Therapy, Occupational Therapy, Psychotherapy etc).

This is a year-long qualification which focusses on supervised individual independent research and analysis.

EQUINE FACILITATED TRAINING PROGRAMMES

The qualification is comprised of two short taught modules, and an extended research-based third, as follows:

- i) the skills required to develop your own research project, and engaging effective and appropriate tools to assess and analyse the impact of the project undertaken;
- ii) the different practices and approaches undertaken in the wider market of Equine Facilitated and Assisted Interactions and an objective reflective assignment based on these; and
- iii) the third module, which makes up the principal commitment of the qualification, is based the creation and execution of an extended programme of professional practice and research.

Athena Herd Foundation CIC

Jennifer and Brent Geach established Athena in 2014 developing a unique, interactive learning and development centre based at their 16th century farmhouse in West Kent. Bringing the concept of the horses' health and wellbeing being at the heart of everything they do with the Athena Herd Foundation horses living as naturally as possible on a barefoot track system and do have access to grass and grazing. It is a special place for both humans and animals with many UK and international visitors enjoying the unique Athena Herd Foundation blend of professionally delivered learning and development in the most tranquil of settings. Limited accommodation is available on site to further enhance the Athena Herd Foundation experience.

The Athena Herd Foundation horses are an established mixed herd, living as naturally as possible on a barefoot track system with access to grazing. We believe that this environment supports their optimum physical and emotional health and wellbeing and enables us to provide you with the best possible learning and development experience. Having said this, we fully acknowledge that a track system may not work for all horses and humans so in terms of the offering, the Athena Herd Foundation embraces an open and inclusive approach to your set-up in this space placing the focus on a commitment to the Ethical treatment of Horses, through standards of equine care building on the Friends, Freedom and Forage approach as published in the Horses Manifesto (2012) by the International Association of Animal Behaviour Consultants (IAABC) and the Five Domains model (2015).

What makes our training programmes unique

Jennifer and Brent are passionate not only about providing a genuine and authentic learning experience but also about the quality and transparency of the training programmes on offer. The Athena Herd Foundation is a not for profit organisation and its focus is on supporting and encouraging individual learning and development with training programmes designed specifically for you who is, with our herd, at the heart of everything we do.

Can you train with us: we are very much focussed on supporting you to develop your own unique practice or business no matter your background. We welcome applications from learners whether in a people supporting profession such as Coaching/Leadership, Counselling, Psychotherapy, Occupational Therapy, Teachers, Social Workers, Support

Workers, or therapeutic space or already working with horses or plain and simply you would like to learn more about Equine Facilitated Interactions.

At the outset, we made a conscious decision to deliver training programmes of a very high standard at affordable prices. As far as we are aware, unlike other training providers in this field, there is no continuing annual membership fee or subscription to be part of the authentic community. There is no obligation on participants to continue CPD/CEUs, mentoring and/or supervision with us, unless you would like to. We are also passionate about you choosing whether you want to work on your own or with other professionals. We are truly passionate about building a lifetime support network and opportunities that extend beyond the completion of the Athena Herd Foundation Training Programmes. Fabulous people from our ever growing national and international community are actively developing to become Trainers, running CPD and CEU events also for our community, acting as Mentors and much more.

We regularly review and update our training programmes, look to keep them as affordable as we can recognising there is a lot of work that goes into the offering. We have a passion to inspire growth and development of your own skills and brand bringing the benefits to your own clients and networks. We run free online networking and look to offer very low cost CPD and CEU events.

The Athena Herd Foundation Team

Jennifer and Brent are passionate about building a unique long-term supportive global community comprising people with diverse yet complementary global expertise but very importantly that share the same authentic ethos. The growing Athena Herd Foundation team has over years and years of extensive horse, training, coaching, advisory, business, legal, equitation, therapeutic, counselling and much more experience which ensures that course participants gain a wide range of new and complementary skills and tools to help everyone develop as successful Practitioners.

We have a growing world class team with significant collective expertise in delivering meaningful and insightful learning and therapeutic support around horses which makes us well placed to deliver quality training. This, in addition to the way our accredited training has been developed and our herd of horses are kept at the Athena Herd Foundation, is why we believe our training programmes are unique - providing participants with an amazing 360 degree learning and development opportunity with so much more also in terms of future potential collaborations and friendships.

External validation/certification of our training programmes: it is not just us at the Athena Herd Foundation that think our workshops, certificate and diploma and University backed courses are fantastic! As you would expect of professionally delivered training, the Certificate and Diploma courses in our portfolio have been externally accredited by the ACCPH and those who successfully complete our certificate and diploma courses become eligible to join the ACCPH as an accredited member in their own right. Then there is the University backed programme too with Ulster University.

EQUINE FACILITATED TRAINING PROGRAMMES

Athena Herd Foundation CIC is an Organisational Member of the ACCPH and BACP (British Association for Counsellors and Psychotherapy) and Athena Herd Foundation also runs courses validated for CPD and CEUs. International insurance providers recognise our Training Programmes and we have contacts across the World.

Passionate about standards and regulation:

IQA: Jennifer Geach and Graeme Green are Independent Quality Assurers of assessment processes and practice.

Professional Standards Authority (“PSA”): the Athena Herd Foundation has been liaising with the Professional Standards Authority since 2021 and is the first animal focussed practitioner register to have met the Service User test in 2022 to hold an Accredited Practitioner Register regulated in the UK by the PSA (this is the same government-backed scheme aimed at protecting the public by helping them choose health and care professionals who are competent and trustworthy held by, for example, the bacp for Counsellors and Psychotherapists) The Athena Herd Foundation in any event applies the same standards to non-UK residents who will have an Accredited Practitioner logo without the PSA Kite mark. On completion of the externally accredited ACCPH Level 4 Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diploma, provided learners meet the requirements of the Register, year one to be on this Register is included in the current Module Two and Three pricing.

Melanie Venables, Head of Accreditation, Professional Standards Authority said:

“We were pleased to conduct a preliminary assessment of Athena Herd’s register against Standard One of the Standards for Accredited Registers. Following this being provisionally met, we have welcomed their application for a full assessment against Standards Two to Eight.”

Universities: the Athena Herd Foundation has recently launched a Level 7 The Application of Equine Groundwork in Clinical Practice post graduate certificate module delivered in conjunction with Ulster University’s School of Health Science Advancing programme. As well as it’s own externally accredited ACCPH Level 7 Certificate in Equine Facilitated Interactions. Please see below and our website for more information.

Ofqual: the Athena Herd Foundation has been and continues to work through the process to become an Awarding Organisation for qualifications in this space.

Recent testimonials and feedback:

EQUINE FACILITATED TRAINING PROGRAMMES

“exceeded my expectations in a good way. I’ve experienced so much profound change and emotions and I didn’t expect that”

“I’ve been in love with the place since the moment I arrived”

“Thanks for everything no words seem enough. I’m just so grateful for this opportunity and for the learning experience I’ve had. Can’t wait to continue my journey with you. Thank you so much for your time and patience and for pushing me when I needed it. I will carry this with me for a long time.”

“When I signed up for the Level 4 Diploma in with the Athena Herd Foundation, I had no idea what a game-changer this would be for me. Seeing how much can be achieved and how beneficial this would be for clients struggling to get with more traditional talking therapies, was the inspiration I needed.

Athena Herd Foundation offered an excellent learning environment for classroom-based studies, great materials, as well as the all-important safe and supportive space in which to work experientially with my peers and the herd.

Combining a passion for horses and therapy and developing my own private practice to incorporate the work became my vision for the future. Through the on-going support from Athena Herd Foundation, their continued professional development and supervision, my vision soon became a reality.

A well-delivered and truly inspirational course, that keeps me coming back for more! Counsellor”

“After researching several online courses for Equine Facilitated Learning/Therapy I came across Athena Herd. I was attracted by their no-nonsense approach and practical course layout. Once the decision to sign up for the course was made I found that the support I got from Athena was unwavering, and whilst I reside in New Zealand and they are based in the UK this was of no concern whatsoever. Jennifer Geach & Graeme Green were easy to access via Zoom or telephone and were always encouraging. Getting to know the other participants from different parts of the globe was interesting, and extremely helpful, as we exchanged ideas and different points of view, and gave or received support at our combined Zoom meetings. We were a community with a common goal The course itself had both integrity and substance. I gained my Equine Facilitated Interactions Certificate and Equine Facilitated Practitioner Diploma through the Athena Herd Foundation and I am thrilled to be a part of this community.

My background for many years was in the building industry as Financial Director for three substantial companies, I then re-evaluated my life and studied to become a Pain Therapist using Scenar I work on both horses and humans I find that this ties in perfectly with EFL/T.”
